

No Peace - No Work

At the start of the Iraq War in 2003, many working people were opposed to the invasion. Now the overwhelming majority want to end the war and withdraw the troops.

The war is currently costing over 720 million dollars a day if continued, it could rise into trillions of dollars which could be spent on pressing domestic needs, including universal health care, job retraining, adequate housing and education.

The International Longshore & Warehouse Union (ILWU) has called for a united labor action on May 1, 2008, International Workers Day, to demand an end to the war.

End the war now -
Bring our troops home!

May 1, 2008 Thursday - 12:00 noon

Jack Perry Memorial Park - 1729 Alaska Way South

*Between Pier 30 & Pacific Maritime Institute
March from the park along the waterfront to Pier 66*